DIGITAL SOCIAL NETWORK ANALYSIS AND ANCIENT LITERATURE: LIBANIUS' EPISTOLARY EGO-NETWORK (LIEVE VAN HOOFF)

Recent years have seen a boom in the application of digital social network analysis to ancient history and archaeology (e.g. Schor, Ruffini). Greek and Latin literature, however, have seldom been studied from this point of view. This paper explores the opportunities and challenges involved in applying digital social network analysis to the letters of Libanius (314-393 A.D.).
