

Publié sur La Vie des Classiques (<https://96.ip-213-32-20.eu>)

Accueil > Durham Digital Classics Training, June 10, 2019

DURHAM DIGITAL CLASSICS TRAINING, JUNE 10, 2019

The Department of Classics and Ancient History in Durham and the Institute of Classical Studies (London) are offering a one-day training workshop in digital approaches to classical and historical texts, to be held at Durham University. The workshop will include discussion of digital philology, linguistic annotation and translation, geographical annotation and visualization, and EpiDoc encoding for epigraphic and papyrological texts. There will be opportunity for hands-on practice of a few tools and methods on the day, and pointers to further information and sources of training in this area.

The workshop will take place in the Seminar Room of the Classics Department on Monday June 10, 2019, from 10:00 to 17:00. There is no charge for the workshop but booking is essential. To reserve a place, send an email to g.e.curtis@durham.ac.uk.

For more information contact p.j.heslin@durham.ac.uk and gabriel.bodard@sas.ac.uk.
