

Publié sur La Vie des Classiques (<https://96.ip-213-32-20.eu>)

Accueil > New! Free Patristic Greek text archive now online

NEW! FREE PATRISTIC GREEK TEXT ARCHIVE NOW ONLINE

A very important announcement today – the Patristic Text Archive has gone online in beta! It's here.

This is a new open-access collection of Greek (and other) texts, encoded in XML format (well, strictly it's TEI), and freely available for download from GitHub, as I noted a couple of days ago.

But now the front-end has appeared, which means that the texts are displayed online in a format that anybody can read.

Texts

Available text collections

All authors 10

New editions 46

GCS retrodigitized 3

PTA0013
Amphilocheus of Iconium

PTA0036
Anonymus of Cyzicus

PTA0022
Athanasius of Alexandria

You click on the cover to get through:

PTA

Texts Manuscripts Project

Alpha EN

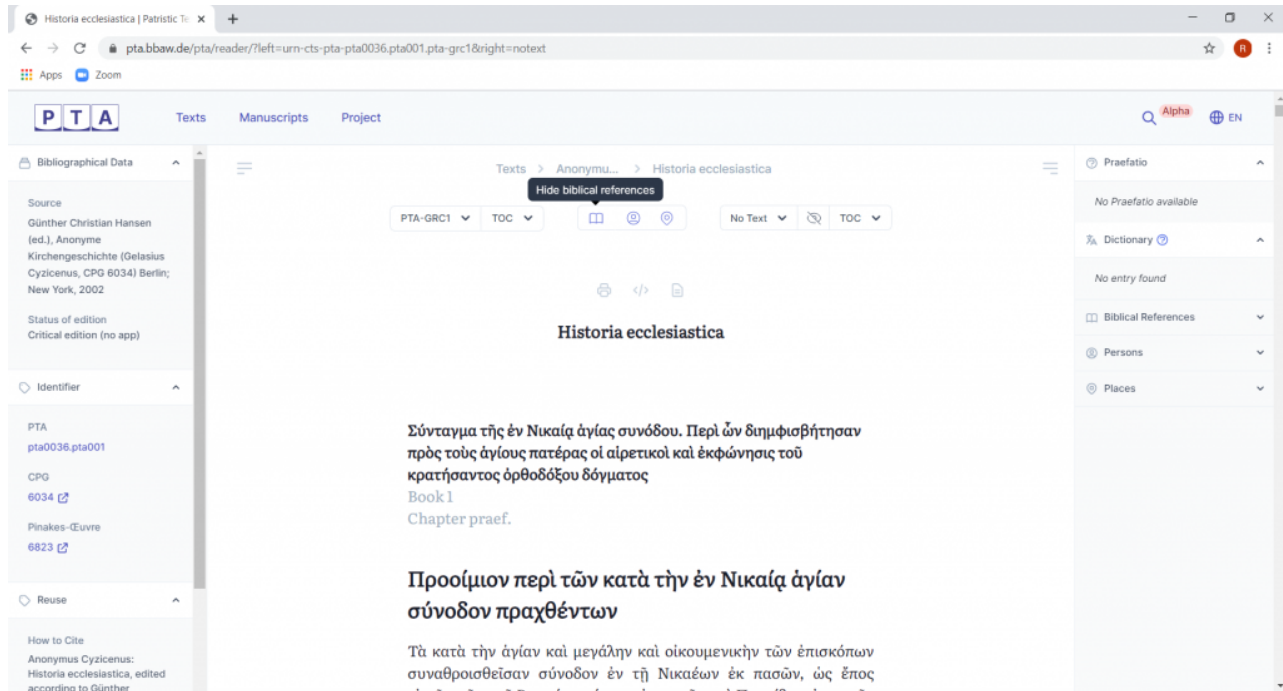

Texts > Anonymu...
Anonymus of Cyzicus

1 item found

Title ▾

TITLE ↕	MANUSCRIPTS	EDITIONS	TRANSLATIONS	PTA ID ↕
 Historia ecclesiastica	0	Greek		pta001	Open

Click on Open a couple more times, and you get the text, gorgeously formatted:

It's very easy to browse, and there is so much of interest there! If I tell you that this collection includes the text of Eusebius of Caesarea's Commentary on the Psalms for ps.1-50, you will see why I am excited.

Sometimes the texts have translations with them. There are 53 texts by Severian of Gabala (yay!) and I saw that De fide et lege naturae has a new German translation against it (double-yay!).

There are still a couple of glitches. I just clicked on the "About" link in Internet Explorer, and the page was blank below the heading (so use Chrome). More importantly on a smartphone, the UI misleads the reader: if you click on the links you won't be able to get into any of the texts unless you know to scroll right, because the "open" button is off-screen to the right. (What they ought to do is to dispense with the "open" button and make the whole row a hyperlink). But these are mere niggles.

This is immensely welcome. Use it, everyone! This must surely be the shape of things to come.