FROM MY DIARY

The spam filter is acting up again. I found four different messages from the contact form in it this morning, which I have tried to deal with. My apologies for the delay. There was also a mass of messages which did indeed seem to be spam and them I just deleted.

Today I also came across a post where part of the text had simply disappeared, breaking off mid-sentence. If you see any others, please do let me know (if you can!).

I don't know if I will blog any more this week. There will be no blogging next week, as I shall be tied up with other things. But normal blogging should resume after that.

Over the last few months, I have come across various interesting things to write about. Often I have sent myself an email as a reminder. Often I have sent myself several emails on the same topic, with links and attachments, as I googled around the subject on my phone from wherever I happened to be. I looked at that email folder a couple of nights ago and found 347 emails in it. So it may take a little while to work through.

I haven't yet got back to translating, or any other projects yet. But I will.
